

25 September 2018

Our new warehouse: quality, flexibility and reliability

Today's stainless steel market is extremely dynamic and ever-changing. In this context, the biggest challenge we needed to face was the creation of a new warehouse able to combine stock availability and short delivery times.

With this in mind, we recoded and reorganized the articles we supply, and we expanded our range of products for ensuring a more punctual and efficient service.

Managing and reordering big stocks of products allow our clients to benefit from competitive advantages in terms of prices. Moreover, we are glad to support those clients who have special requirements concerning the supply of out of stock and/or special items.

Our attention is focused on the professional growth of our young collaborators for keeping and strengthening our identity: satisfying the needs of our clientele and paying attention to the evolution of the stainless steel market.